Clinton, NJ - Pete Putman, CTS, KT2B; owner and principal of ROAM Consulting and technology consultant for Kramer Electronics USA, will present his annual review of the Consumer Electronics Show at the 2014 HPA Tech Retreat. The conference will be held from February 17 - 21 at the Hyatt Indian Wells Resort in Indian Wells, CA.

The HPA Tech Retreat is an informal gathering in the Palm Springs area of the top industry-engineering, technical, and creative talent, as well as strategic business leaders focused on technology, from all aspects of digital-cinema, post-production, film, television, video, and related technologies for the exchange of information.

On Wednesday February 19, Putman will present his fast-paced and sometimes humorous look at the International CES, held in early January in Las Vegas. Following this presentation, he will also discuss the new generation of faster, smaller, and denser display interfaces in a talk titled "It Slices! It Dices!"

Putman will also moderate two breakfast roundtable discussions. Wednesday's roundtable topic will be "Quantum Dots vs. OLEDs: Who Wins?" while Thursday's topic is "Next-Generation Display Interfaces: the Conversation Continues."

Putman has been an active participant in the Tech Retreat since 2002 and has presented on such diverse topics as wireless display connectivity, over-the-top streaming video, reference plasma monitors, and lamp-free projection technologies.
