Williams Sound names new Japanese Distributor

Minneapolis, Minn. - Williams Sound is pleased to introduce Media Plus, its exclusive Commercial Sound Distribution Partner in Japan.

According to Shuji Ozaki, president of Media Plus, "We are quite pleased to be working with Williams Sound, a proven and trusted manufacturer in the global, wireless communications marketplace. Their products complement our other product lines well and will help us provide complete solutions for our customers in Japan. We clearly expect to see great opportunities evolve – especially with Hearing HotSpot, Williams Sound's innovative live audio over Wi-Fi product."

Adds Doreen Ingebrigtsen, vice president of international sales for Williams Sound. "We are pleased with this new distribution partnership. Media Plus has a wealth of experience providing communication solutions to the Japanese market, and is in tune with the needs of a number of industries. Their knowledge and excellent reputation can only be an advantage to us all. We feel confident that, by aligning ourselves with Media Plus, we will create many new opportunities for our customers as we bring new and innovative products to market. We welcome Media Plus as one of our respected International Distribution Partners."
